Persist received notice from Rocky View that the 12% interest for late payment was charged. Attached with the payment was the original payment envelope, which showed that payment to Rocky View County was clearly postmarked by Canada post on June 27, which is prior to June 30, and is in compliance with the requirement for avoidance of the interest charge.

We acknowledge that the payment attempt was made to the old address, which was a clerical error. For some reason our bank (ATB) refused to process any property tax payments this year, hence why payment was mailed.

Please consider this our request to waive the interest charge. If this request is denied, we will request return of the payment made (as the denial would result in Persist being charged the interest as though payment was not made at all, even though it was made in full), and we will pay the invoice in December (in advance of the next deadline).

Regards,

David
